Bio

Tessa Parodi de Schonen holds a DEA in Common Law (Assas – Paris II, 2004) and an LLM in International Business and Trade Law (Fordham University - New York, 2005). She is registered with the New York Bar and the Paris Bar.

She began to practise with the private equity / mergers and acquisitions teams at the firm Orrick Rambaud Martel in 2007. She later worked with the LBO – mergers and acquisitions team at the firm Nixon Peabody, before joining Scotto & Associés in 2013, where she developed the management practice package and its financial aspects, in particular. She joined the firm Brunswick Avocats in 2017.

Tessa co-founded Altair Avocats on 1 January 2019.

She regularly supports company directors and business owners with start-ups, raising funds/LBOs or winding up their operations, with a particular focus on negotiating and structuring management packages. She also works with financial investors on private-equity transactions, LBOs and mergers and acquisitions, both in France and internationally.
